Announcing
a Master of Arts Degree in Education
Dual Language Development

This is an invitation to pursue your Master of Arts in Education degree at California State University, Long Beach!

We offer an exciting program for pre-service teacher candidates who are pursuing a credential, or who have a credential and are not yet fully employed. Our program is also tailored for in-service teachers and is ideal for individuals who wish to work, or are working with English learners and/or bilingual students. Flexible course scheduling options are also provided to better meet your needs.

Participants take classes as members of a cohort beginning in the fall semester. In our program you will meet individuals from a variety of school districts offering opportunities to network with others and advance your educational career! Our graduates gain employment as classroom teachers, curriculum specialists and employment opportunities also exist in the private sector.

This is a high quality program that is accredited by the National Council of Accreditation for Teacher Education (NCATE).

We Look Forward to Hearing from You!
